Since L uis Morningstar showed how easy it was to go all over the world without working for a living-except 'working' the fools, who according to Carlyle, constitute the majority of the human race-a great impetus has been given to the loafing business, especially in America. At last, however, even there the people are tiring of the imposition, and now the newspapers which were mostly responsible for the initial success of the wholesale tramp venture adept a very different tone:-Frank Clune, the boy tramp, escaped THE N. P. s. s. Evandale, from Tacama, from the City lock-up yesterday and took passage for Nanaimo by the City of Nanaimo, which left early in the morning with the B. C. Iron Works picnic party. The Nanaimo police were soon on his track and very unceremoniously bundled him back by the same boat. He was once more appropriated at this end. The gentle moral The bumboat people took out a junk-load sussion of a strap might with advantage be rescried to, though the better plan would be to get rid of the young reprobate as soon as possible."

Ir seems that there are sea serpents in other places than Hongkong; and American newspapers are not so unkind as to make pasty sneers at the distinguished visitor. By to-day's mail we have the following examples of encouragement to enspector, a Chinaman was fined $150 by the Bak Lake, Megantic, Que., July 30.

PRESENTATION TO DR MARQUES. On Sunday afternoon, the Club Lusitano was the scene of a most enthusiastic demonstration in honour of a very popular and deserving member of the Portuguese community. It will be remembered that in the recent Medical Commission Report, Dr Marques, an officer of the Government medical staff of the Colony, was referred to in terms far from complimentary to bis professional reputation. The Portuguese community having resolved to munifest their sympathy for the worthy doctor, an address with close upon a thousand signatures was presented him on Sunday afternoon in presence of a large concourse of ladies and gentlemen. In handing over the testimonial, Dr Gomes feelingly did justice to the recipient's merits, and pointed out that never before had the Partuguese community evinced such enthusinsmus on this accession, although, in that very hall where they stood, there had taken place various manifestations in favour of victims of persecutions fomented by hatred, vengeance, and ill-will. It was pointedly remarked in the address that the slur was cast in spite of fifteen years' distinguished services, and regardless of splendid professional diplomas conferred by one of the best medical schools in Europe. A slur so gratuitous and unjustifiable could not but arouse general indignation; and it; was not without justification that the Porrepel the unjust assertion regarding one of their most illustrious members as well asons of their best ornaments, the more so when worthy dector, especially among the poor. The community, therefore, conscious of all this juncture and render the homage due to his recognised merits, deploring sincerely proffering him the address with the assurances of their sympathy and devotion.

'CHOLERA' SCARES.

We are indebted to a medical correspondent for a copy of the Munster News giving a report of a very important poisoning case which occurred at Limerick last month. An outbreak of diarrhou and vomiting occurred in a Conwent, and some deaths ensued it is not stated how many. At the inquest it was proved that the whole of the inmates of the convent, about eighty porsons, had been poisoned by eating a oustard made of milk and eggs that were not quite fresh. From the evidence of Sir Charles Cameron, analyst, it appears that in food, especially of an albuminous character, such as flesh, milk or eggs, poisons of a most virulent nature have been generated and have produced disease and death. Not long ago five persons died in Dublia from eating mussels, which contained a poison generated in them. There are numerous cases on record of persons having been poisoned by food into which no poison had been introduced either by accident or design. I, myself, nearly lost my life by swallowing one mouthful of turkey which was a little "high." There are two kinds of poison which may be generated in food. 1st. Toxalbumens, from albumen. These not as powerful ferments on the blood and produce blood poisoning with attendant vomiting, purging and collapse. 2nd, Ptomaines, which reserable strychnine, nicotine, and other bodies to which the term alkaloid is applied. These ptomeines are virulent poisons, but their separation and identification are extremely difficult, and under certain circumstauces impossible.

'It is quite certain that in albuminous matter changes may take place very quickly, in summer especially, resulting in the generation of toxalbumens, or ptomsines. though the food in which they are generated may appear to be only slightly altered. In other words incipient decomposition seems to be sufficient to generate the poison, an always, opparently, under the influence of of micro-organisms (bacteria, &c).

The case is of interest here because similar socidents frequently bappen; food 'goes off' so quickly; and causes death from one or other of these forms of blood-poisoning, which are very liable to be mistaken for cholers. In a village on the mainland not long ago ten Chinese had been feasting on roset pork and water melon; eight of them were taken ill, and four or five died. cholera scare was raised, but it was not cholera at all; only blood fermentation. So It is probably with many of the deaths easigned to obolerale dierrhot. At the same time, it is not proved that there is much real difference between this and pholera; in both pases, food is esten when not quite fresh, and the result is diarrhos a and death, and to the ordinary ley mind it matters very litthe how many syllables there are in the name of the buoteria. If it is all due to fermentation of food in the atomach, then the sufest course is only to take what has already flaished formenting, auch as beer,

SUPREME COURT. IN SUMMARY JURISDICTION. (Before Mr A. G. Wise, Acting Puisne Judge:) Tuezday, Aug. 27.

A WIDOW'S JEWELLERY, Fong Afoon Bloosdeen, Chinese widow of an Indian merchant, sued the Ki Hing pawnshop for $1,000, value of juwellery alleged to have been wrongfully pawned. Mr H. J. Gedge (Measts Johnson, Stokes and Master) was for the plaintiff, and Mr H. L. Dennys for the defendants.

The case had been before the court several times. The deceased Mocadeen had given his wife a large quantity of jewellery at various times, and it had in some manner found its way to the pawnshop. The defence was that it was with her consent. in the ordinary course of business.

FOREIGNERS. THE OUTRAGE NEAR FOOCHOW.

(From our own Correspondent.) Fucchow, August 24. O., Wednesday night I wired you of an struck made on a chapel and school belonging to the American Board Mission and situated in a village about two miles East of Forchow. It appears that the despatch tuguess community deemed it their duty to was not clear, and that some thought it by our Correspondent :meant another massacre. I regrot that auch a mistake should have arisen. The bearing in mind the noble, disinterested, and facts are briefly these, as I learned more invaluable services which so endeared the fully later. On Sunday a crowd, armed with knives and tridents, attacked tho this, could not but gather around him at place, wounded four Chinese, wrecked most afternuon of Saturday, August 3rd, in comof the furniture and carried off the rest. and profoundly that he should be so meanly It was a bold thing to do so near the city, slurred after such a brilliant career, and and sooms to indicate a state of things not pleasant to think of. In the Minchiang District, situated about forty-five miles to the west of Foochow. there is no trouble, though the apparen ly well-intentioned act of the Magistrate was not such as to hold in check the evil-dispossed if there were any. After bearing of the Kucheng massacre he sent a letter to several places requesting the foreigners, if any were there, and the native pastors, to ing embarked; 25,000 additional troops withdraw to Foochow for a time, because, will be embarked for Cuba in November. as he said, in case of a disturbance it would be impossible for him to protect them. He had, he declared, so few soldiers that efficient protection would be impossible. There were no foreigners in surgents. cheng and, so far as I know, the situation there is unchanged. There must be change soon, however, as the United States and British Ministers have decided to support the Consuls in their demand to be present at the trial. It is r ported here that the Viceroy has been severely canaured by Peking, for what, I know not, but presumably for his conduct in this very mat-

Hongkong, it is a good thing that the Commission went to Kucheng. Its presence will ensure a thorough investigation, and will probably be a guarantee that the guilty will be punished and the guilty only. whatever good comes of it, the oredit will be largely due to Col. Euclosed I send an Express issued on Thursday last by Dr. John Cross, of the English Presbyterian Mission, Amoy, giving in brief an account of an interview he had with the British Consul Kullang on Saturday, August 9. It is interesting and valuable as a commentary on an extraordinary Express in defence of the British Consul issued here by Archdescon Wolfe on the 13th. Much astonishment was felt here ever the Archdencen's production because of the way in which he himself had spoken of the Consul on the Saturday after the massacre and later The real value of it may now be gauged by created a slight feeling of unessiness a comparison with the Express of Dr Cross. What becomes now of the alleged agree- odd of the disarmed Hupeh troops resented ment for the Consul to return to Foochow | the fact that one month's pay was being at the 'earliest moment'? There are times when men may pray to be saved from their friends. I do not send a copy of the Archdeacon's Express as I hear it was promptly telegraphed all over the world, and you probably have a copy already.

Commander Newell of the U. S. S. invited Dr E. H. Hart, of the M. E. Mission, provided by the Vicercy much against situation. A strong guard was put around his will. For reasons of his own he is opposed to their going, but he has had to

The following is the Express referred t Foochow, August 22,

11.30 a.m. Referring to the statements made in Expresses now before the Foothow Community regarding the action of H.B.M. Consul and the Kutien Massacre, I feel it my duty to state that: At 5,30 on the pany with the Rev. Mr Star, I called at the house of Mr Cave-Thomas at Kuliang where we had an inverview with the Consul conveying the wounded to Foothew.

The Consul repeatedly informed us that he had no intention of returning to Foochow until Monday morning. Later in the interview, we informed him of our intention to go to Fooshow that evening so as to be at hand if it was thought necessary to more flery orators missed the fame of seeing send any relief to Kutien; and asked to whom we could appeal for advice if he were absent from the British Consulate. It was then the Consul changed his attitude and agreed to go to Fouchow with us. added, however, that, in his opinion, any relief party was a mistake, and his object in going down was to do what he could to cellent, as public speaking generally is when prevent it.
